CALHOUN CASE IS SET FOR TRIAL ON JULY 19

Judge Lawlor Denies He Can Not Give Him Fair Hearing
SWEARS HE IS FREE FROM PROSECUTION
Declares He Never Promised Immunity to Abe Ruef or Others
SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—Judge Lawlor this afternoon set the trial of Patrick Calhoun, charged with bribing Ex-Supervisor John J. Furey for Monday, July 19th, at 9:30 a. m. A venire will be ordered to appear in court at that time.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—Attorney Barrett, in behalf of Patrick Calhoun, this afternoon requested five days' time in which to examine the affidavits of the prosecution and decide on what action, if any, should be taken. Attorney O'Garra objected to a further continuance, and Judge Lawlor denied the request of the defense. Attorney Barrett then commenced to argue in behalf of Mr. Calhoun against Judge Lawlor sitting as a trial jurist in the case.

When Attorney Barrett had completed, the court denied the request to call in another jurist, and then Attorney Barrett announced that in view of the fact that practically the entire showing of the prosecution was based on Judge Lawlor's own affidavit, the defense thought it useless to argue the matter before him, and the matter was submitted without a reply from Attorney O'Garra.

Judge Lawlor thereupon denied the petition for a change of venue.
SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—Contradicting and denying every allegation of untimeliness and partiality charged against him by the affidavits of the defendant and his counsel, Superior Judge William P. Lawlor this morning declared himself unbiased, and filed a sworn statement in which he asserted that he believed he could give to Patrick Calhoun a fair trial before the law.

These affidavits in reply to those submitted by the defense, were filed by Attorney O'Garra at the opening of the session at 10 o'clock. These were sworn to by William P. Lawlor, John O'Garra and William O'Garra, who were represented by Attorney John J. Barrett, and the proceedings were put over until 2 p. m. in order for the defense to determine whether or not they desired to file counter affidavits and decide upon the arguments on the matter as to be heard.

The principal sworn statement to submit that Judge Lawlor, and as asserts that it was no personal acquaintance with the defendant Patrick Calhoun, and it is not true that he is biased and prejudiced against him. He details at length his negotiations with Henry, Harris, and

DESTITUTE PARENTS OFFER TO SELL BABY FOR $500 IN CASH

NEW YORK, July 8.—Harry Beach, 22 years old, and out of employment, and his wife, both of whom have been hungry much of late, have offered their two weeks' old baby for sale for $500 cash. When Beach's first wife died two years ago she left him with two children and he married his present wife six months later. In discussing their offer of the new baby for sale, Beach and his wife said that to keep the child would be only to inflict their hardships upon him and by selling the boy, they would provide him with a good home and bring prosperity to themselves.

Together the pair departed for the latter place. When a half mile from the place the woman was brutally murdered. Her skull was crushed with a club.

District Attorney Wants to See Trout

District Attorney Donahue is anxiously awaiting the return of Oakland Earl E. Trout, formerly a barber in the Plaza Hotel, who was arrested on Tuesday last on a charge of murder in Reno, on Tuesday last one month after his wife was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce in this city.

The wife was a Miss Pearl D. Haefner of 626 J. St., Alameda. The former Mrs. Trout is living at 817 Eighth street in this city and secured her divorce in the Supreme Court of Alameda county and now comes the news that her husband, who was arrested on Tuesday last, is in the hands of the law. The district attorney wants to see Trout on his return to Oakland.

MISS RALSTON DENIES SHE ACCEPTED LOAN

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—"It's a cold world and full of disappointments," hummed Meyer Cohen, popular man-about-town and general good fellow, as he slapped his hands together and strode out of Judge Frank H. Murasky's department of the Superior Court this morning.

"There is many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip," replied Horace Jackson, clerk of the court, who is ever ready to soothe the distressed and troubled, while Andy Young, the court bailiff, kept his mouth closed, fearing he might get into trouble.

No Loan, She Says

Cohen was suing Miss Ralston to recover $1315 he alleged she loaned her on her word of honor that she would pay. Part of the money, he said, was to start the girl in the boarding house business but she never started. Cohen admitted that he thought a "whole lot" of Miss Ralston when he gave her the money.

Tired of His Proposals

The first Miss Ralston heard of any money being loaned her by Y. Cohen she declared that while she was wearing at her house, he was giving her a little money. "Oh, my! It was not a loan," she declared.

Funny, Wasn't It?

"Funny," he said, "but I'll bet almost anything she has disposed of it." "Well," fairly roared Clerk Jackson, "the judgment was for the defendant and the plaintiff must pay the costs."

Girl is Victim of Mythomania, Declares Assistant State's Attorney

WITNESS SAYS LACEMAKER OWNED NECKLACE WHICH SHE STATES WAS STOLEN

CHICAGO, July 8.—It was with the expectation of finishing the defense's evidence and starting the state's rebuttal that the trial of Ella Gingles was resumed in Judge Brennan's court here today. Assistant State's Attorney Short stated that he would produce many witnesses to impeach the remarkable testimony given by the young defendant. Experts it is said will testify that the lacemaker is a victim of mythomania—that while her story is weirdly improbable, she firmly believes it in all its illogical, fantastic details.

Throng of spectators again flocked to the criminal court building, but only those directly concerned with the proceedings were admitted. Miss Gingles, simply clad, her innocent blue eyes seemingly a flat contradiction of the knowledge of things to which she has testified, entered the court room with her attorney, P. H. O'Donnell.

Trola Linderman, the 14-year-old daughter of Miss Gingles' landlady, was the first witness for the defense. The child testified to having seen a necklace which she alleged was stolen from her by Miss Gingles.

Her recovery is a matter of doubt.

MRS. M'CREA IS MISSING FROM HER HOME

Leading Witness Against the "Buff Kid" Gone For Several Days

TRIAL TO CONTINUE, DECLARE PROSECUTOR

Will Be Unable to Extradite Her in Order to Force Her Testimony

Mrs. Edith McCrea, the prosecuting witness in the case of the people against Charles Mack, the "Buff Kid," has disappeared and can not be located by the authorities.

The District Attorney's office was notified this morning and secured the additional information that she is in British Columbia, safe beyond the power of extradition as a fugitive witness.

Mack's case is set for trial in the Criminal Department of the Superior Court on July 19. Assistant District Attorney Hynes says that the absence of Mrs. McCrea will have no tendency to interfere with the prosecution other than insofar as it may materially weaken the case against the accused man. He was charged by Mrs. McCrea with having robbed her of $110 in a wine-room of the Press Cafe, located at Eighth and Franklin streets and run by A. J. Le Fort. She testified against the accused at his preliminary hearing, and in the event that she can not be produced at the forthcoming trial, her preliminary testimony will have to be depended upon.

Mrs. McCrea resided in Fruitvale at the time of the alleged robbery and suddenly disappeared from her home there some time ago, nobody knowing where she went.

GOV. SMITH WANTS PLACE ON BENCH

Philippine Chief Executive Not Anxious to Return to Islands

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Governor General James F. Smith was a visitor at the White House yesterday in conference with President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Governor Smith is remaining in Washington for another conference with President Roosevelt and also to confer with Secretary Dickinson of the War Department. He saw President Taft last week and had dinner with him. Governor Smith does not want to return to the Philippines and there is no truth in the stories that the President desires him to give up his place. On the contrary, the President has been greatly pleased to have the Governor return to the Philippines and remain there indefinitely.

The President is fully aware of the good qualities of the Californian. He has known Governor Smith since the latter first went to the Philippines in 1915 in command of a regiment of volunteer soldiers. He finds that the Governor's return to the Philippines is a great loss to the United States and he would like to have the Governor remain here.

TROOPS REACH SCENE OF NOVA SCOTIA STRIKE

To shelter the strikers who were evicted from the houses of the company, hundreds of tents have been put up.

LEADING BUSINESS MEN DISCUSS COMING ELECTION Plan to Select Candidates, Who, if Elected, Will Look Out for Best Interests of San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—At a meeting of merchants, business men and taxpayers, held yesterday afternoon in the assembly room of the Merchants' Exchange building, temporary organization was effected for the purpose of securing to the electors candidates for office who are known to be capable, upright and energetic men, and who will devote their time to the best interests of San Francisco.

There was practically a full attendance of the 150 citizens and taxpayers to whom invitations had been sent by the committee of seven which issued the call. It was an assembly of earnest, practical business men, who have in view the fact that the taxpayers will pay into the city treasury next year $10,400,000, which they wish to see intelligently and effectively expended.

Candidates Not Mentioned

There was no lobbying, and not even a mention of candidates. The purpose of the movement, as announced by its leaders, is to select such Republican candidates as are deemed worthy of support, and to make independent nominations where the candidates already in the field are not approved.

The temporary chairman was authorized to appoint an executive committee of twenty-five, with full power and authority to select candidates for municipal office to be voted for at the August primary, and to take steps to have them placed on the Republican ballot, and to further proceed to organize the Republicans of San Francisco for the purpose of securing the election of the candidates recommended by the citizens' committee.

Business Plans

The meeting was called to order by Frank H. Powers, an attorney, who stated that it was the wish of the taxpayers assembled to do something for San Francisco, and to put its municipal affairs on a good business basis. He then called for nominations for temporary chairman.

Albert J. Rich presented the name of Charles M. Plum, a furniture dealer, who was accepted as the unanimous choice of the assembly.

Resolution Carried

Walter Bacon introduced the following resolution:

Whereas, The political situation in San Francisco demands that some action be taken by the merchants, business men and taxpayers of the city for the purpose of securing to the electors candidates for office who are known to be capable, upright and energetic men and who will devote their time to the best interests of San Francisco; therefore be it

Resolved, That an executive committee of twenty-five be appointed by the chairman, of which committee the chairman and secretary of this committee shall be ex-officio members, for the purpose of selecting candidates for public office to be voted for at the ensuing primary election, and shall take such further steps as they deem necessary to secure places on the official Republican ballot for such candidates, and shall proceed to organize the Republicans of San Francisco for the purpose of securing the election of such candidates, and the executive committee is hereby given full power and authority to act in all such matters; be it further

Resolved, That the executive committee shall from time to time report back to the general committee.

No Time to Spare

In commenting upon the resolution, Bacon said: "This plan should appeal to the best judgment of this meeting. The committee has not much time before it, as all nominating petitions must be in by July 17."

The resolution was unanimously carried.

A RARE TREAT FOR THE WOMEN OF OAKLAND

MME. MAKERENKO, WHO IS AT THE BELL THEATRE THIS WEEK, WILL DISPLAY ON THE STAGE AFTER THE PERFORMANCE FRIDAY AFTERNOON, HER ASSORTMENT OF GOWNS, DRESSES, ETC., VALUED AT $20,000. ALL WOMEN AND OTHERS INTERESTED ARE INVITED TO INSPECT THIS BEWILDERING WARDROBE.

ZAZA MAKERENKO, at the Bell.

There is nothing that more delights womanhood than a woman's beautiful costume. That is why the special matinee at the Bell Theatre on Friday afternoon of this week will prove attractive to the women of Oakland. There is a troupe of Russian gypsy singers and dancers direct from the Imperial Theatre of St. Petersburg in Russia. Mme. Makarenko, the leader of this attractive troupe possesses a wardrobe of beautiful costumes valued at many thousands of dollars. At the close of the matinee on Friday the women in the audience will be invited upon the stage and given an opportunity to inspect the rich wearing apparel worn by this little lady from the Far East. It is this week in the act that every single stitch that went into the creation of these shimmering and bewitching costumes was taken by this clever woman's fingers. As she talked with a newspaper man this week she told of other garments rich and beautiful which were now the process of making and she assured the writer that every moment of her life was a busy one, finding time even between acts and shows to give to the work which she has now grown to love so much. To say that her handiwork is magnificent would be to feebly describe its beauty. The costumes must be closely inspected to gain any idea of their real value and to draw his gun, a gambler, who was widely known all over the United States. Felton retired from his calling three years ago and since then he and his wife had been living humbly on a farm near Pocksville, where they supported themselves by taking in boarders.

FRANK FELTON, GAMBLER, DIES

Decline in Fortune Comes
When He Shoots and Kills
Guy Roche

NEW YORK, July 8.—The death in a hospital at Pocksville, N. Y., is announced of "Big Frank" Felton, a gambler, who was widely known all over the United States. Felton retired from his calling three years ago and since then he and his wife had been living humbly on a farm near Pocksville, where they supported themselves by taking in boarders.

After Felton had conducted gambling houses in San Francisco, Chicago, St. Louis, Denver and Hot Springs, Ark., he came to New York about seven years ago. On Thanksgiving eve, 1924, he shot and killed Guy Roche, another gambler, in a crowded section of Broadway. Roche had threatened to kill Felton on sight and when they met at a restaurant to draw his gun, Felton was not prosecuted. At that time he was considered wealthy, but since then his fortune has disappeared. Returning to Chicago he made a failure of a gambling house there and then came back to New York, where he was identified in several gambling ventures, but he was so harassed by the police that he lost his fortune and retired to the farm.

Death was the result of appendicitis. The body has been brought here and the sporting element proposes to give him a pretentious funeral.

JUDGE SAYS "GRAFTER" IS NO SLANDEROUS TERM

CHICAGO, July 8.—The word "grafter" is not necessarily slanderous, Judge Foster held yesterday in the Municipal Court. By the opinion William H. Haskall, former superintendent of construction of the board of education, lost his suit for damages for $1000 against Dwight H. Perkins. The court directed the jury to return a verdict in favor of the defendant.

"Grafter," the court said, "does not necessarily imply dishonesty. If a man tipped the water the latter might be called a 'grafter' so far as I can see, the plaintiff has suffered no damage."

All of the testimony given by Effie C. Tainter in her suit for a divorce from L. S. Tainter, in which Superior Judge Wells has just entered an interlocutory decree in her favor, points to her husband's excessive use of liquor and association with the horse-racing fraternity as the cause of all their marital troubles.

It brings out the fact that only a few years ago Tainter was a well-to-do business man and possessed considerable property, and that he not only lost everything through his habitual intemperance, but lost his grip in the commercial community as well. He used to take a flyer in stocks occasionally, she says. Mrs. Tainter told the court that about nine years ago there was a heavy storm in certain shares that he was long on and he lost a great deal of money. He made him so low-spirited and down-hearted that he took to drinking and associating with racing men.

That was the beginning of the end of his business acumen and ambition, the wife testified. He fitted his property away—every bit of it—and absolutely refrained from making any attempt to recuperate his losses. He began to neglect his wife and home, and Mrs. Tainter testified that she did everything in her power to rescue him, but all to no purpose. Broken-hearted and injured in health by her troubles she was finally compelled to give her husband up and seek legal separation.

LAWLOR DENIES HE IS BIASED

Declares He is Competent to Give Calhoun Fair Trial

Rabbi Nieto and Kaplan in connection with the incident, but in a conference in which it was claimed that immunity for Ruef was planned, and maintained that he never promised immunity or had anything to do with it.

It is further stated that Mr. Henry came to him and represented that the Rev. Jacob Nieto had said that he was in strong sympathy with the investigation being conducted by the grand jury and had offered his assistance in that work. The prosecutor requested Judge Lawlor to make a statement to Nieto as to his practices in accepting the recommendations of the district attorney, and his honor consented to do so. He avers that the time of the conference was not fixed, but that Burns called him out of the Van Ness Theater, where he was a member of a theater party, and asked him to meet Rabbi Nieto and Mr. Henry that night. He finally consented to do so and excused himself from his companions in a cafe, and went to his chambers and made the statement requested by Mr. Henry.

About Immunity Contract

Continuing, he says: "Affiant further states that he consented to make such statement upon the assumption and belief that the Rev. Jacob Nieto was in sympathy with the work of the grand jury then engaged in investigating charges of crime connected with the municipal government. Affiant never consented or approved of any contract of immunity, but nevertheless believed that an attempt was being made to have Abraham Ruef turn state's evidence."

Judge Lawlor declares further that he had no idea that he was going to try any of the cases until they were assigned to him. He did not know of the immunity contract until Ruef until he read it in a local paper on January 19, 1908, and gives it as his recollection that in the first Ford trial, Henry announced that he had not called Ruef because, if the former had given testimony, he would have demanded the dismissal of all the trolley indictments against him.

Examination of Jurors

Referring to the examination of jurors, the affidavit states that Judge Lawlor believed from the law that the defense should examine first, and maintains that throughout the trial he had proceeded in a fair and impartial manner, and allowed all but four of the challenges for cause submitted against jurors.

"On the other hand, affiant was satisfied that several of the jurors who submitted to examination by the counsel for the parties gave false testimony, and showed a strong desire to become jurors in the case. Affiant was therefore lenient with counsel, when, at times, counsel became vehement in their examination."

One of the strongest points made in the affidavits of the defense was that the court had no right to admit the evidence regarding the dynamiting of Gallagher's house, the alleged bribery or attempted bribery of Platt and Lawlor, and the following of Burns. In this connection, Judge Lawlor volunteers the following:

"The said evidence was offered by the people upon the theory that the acts sought to be proved were done in pursuance of a conspiracy of which the defense, Patrick Calhoun, was the head and front, for the purpose of obstructing justice and the due administration of the law. Affiant believed at the time he admitted such evidence and still believes that it was and is proper for the court, upon the claim of the people, to receive such evidence tending to show a consciousness of guilt upon the part of the defendant and of rebutting the presumption of innocence. Affiant believes that if he had refused to admit such evidence it would have been contrary to the law of the state of California."

Judge Lawlor denies that he was biased against counsel, that he had frequently visited Fremont Older at the Fairmont Hotel, although admitting an acquaintance with him, and also declares that he never saw Judge Dunne laugh or sneer in the face of Earl Rogers or the jury as he sat beside him on the bench.

About Judge Dunne

"Affiant further states that he has never been a member of the graft prosecution, and that he has never regarded Judge Dunne as a member of the graft prosecution."

Judge Lawlor further took occasion to explain that he was in the habit of consulting with the district attorney, and talking with him regarding all cases tried in his court, and that it had been for that reason that he had held conferences with Henry, sometimes in the court room and sometimes in chambers, and that he left by the front or back door, according as it suited him.

The affidavit of William Otis merely sets forth that he was employed to guard "the life and limbs of Francis J. Henry," and that he had seen Earl Rogers laughing in the court room when the prosecution became vehement in his speech.

Attorney O'Gara set forth that he had never observed any bias or prejudice on the part of the trial judge, and detailed several incidents of the trial to illustrate his position.

Afternoon Session

The afternoon session began at 2:10 o'clock and Attorney Barrett, in behalf of Mr. Calhoun, requested five days' time in which to carefully examine and compare the affidavits of the prosecution and decide on what reply to the affidavits should be made.

He pointed out that the defense had had but four hours in which to examine the sworn statements of Judge Lawlor, Attorney O'Gara, and Detective William Otis. Whereas the prosecution had had eight days in which to reply to the affidavits submitted by Mr. Calhoun.

Attorney O'Gara objected to any further continuance and Judge Lawlor, after reading from the code, denied the motion for continuance.

Attorney Barrett then commenced to argue in behalf of the defense, assailing Judge Lawlor sitting as a trial jurist in the hearing of Mr. Calhoun's case. The argument was necessarily a difficult one to make, as, besides being addressed to the trial judge, it concerned him entirely.

Attorney Barrett's argument was the basis of a movement for the calling in of another judge, and the evidence of Judge Lawlor's disqualification was listened to arguments upon that matter.

When the motion to call in another judge, and after a consultation with Attorney A. A. Moore, Attorney Barrett announced that in view of the facts almost the entire showing of the prosecution was based on Judge Lawlor's own affidavit, and that he was not prepared, the defense thought it useless to argue the matter before him and the motion was submitted without a reply being made by Attorney O'Gara.

Judge Lawlor then denied the petition

WOMAN ACCUSED BY HER TAILOR

Warrant Issued For Arrest of Mrs. Bernau of Fruitvale

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. — On complaint of W. Barron, a local ladies' tailor, a warrant was sworn to before Judge Judge Conlan this morning for the arrest of Mrs. A. Colby Bernau, who resides at the Fairview Hotel, Fruitvale.

The woman is accused of violating section 470A of the penal code, which relates to the passing of fictitious checks. It is alleged that she purchased a suit for $50 and tendered a worthless check in payment.

for a change of venue, and will sit as a trial jurist in the case.

Judge Lawlor called attention to the fact that something had been said about a bill of exceptions to the ruling of the court denying defendant's motion to withdraw his plea, and to move to set aside his indictment. It was decided that this matter should be held over for some time.

Judge Lawlor then inquired as to when the party would be ready to go to trial with the case, which is the indictment charging Calhoun with bribing ex-Superior John J. Furey. Attorney Barrett declared that the defendant had demanded a trial, and had secured one, and by reason of the verdict felt that he had been practically declared innocent. He averred that the issue was largely the same in the present case as in the several cases against General Furey.

Forty-two jurors out of forty-eight have declared that there was no evidence against the defendant, and that never before in the history of the United States had evidence which had failed four times been used a fifth.

In addition to this reason for asking a delay, counsel pointed out that Mr. Calhoun had been unable to attend to his affairs by reason of his continued presence in court and lastly recounted Judge Lawlor's own statement that he believed perhaps it would be unwise to proceed during the turmoil and excitement of a political campaign. He related how Henry had already begun to make the case an issue in his campaign for district attorney.

In reply, Attorney O'Gara spoke very briefly. The attorney for the people claimed that there was a difference between the cases of Ford and that of Calhoun. This brought Attorney A. A. Moore to his feet, and a long argument was made, in which Mr. Calhoun's attorney protested vehemently that the crime charged and that the witnesses and the allegations against the two defendants were almost identical.

Attorney Barrett thereupon in vehement language assailed the motives of the District Attorney, declaring that it was the intention of that official to use the trial of Patrick Calhoun as a political issue in the coming election.

Attorney O'Gara had stated that they wanted to go ahead and would insist upon going right ahead with the trial. Counsel for the defendant inquired of Judge Lawlor whether the district attorney was to be allowed to run the court.

"Does the say-so of the Deputy-Deputy-Deputy District Attorney make it so?" he cried.

"Anyhow, he is not a hoodlum, Mr. Barrett," fired O'Gara, whereupon the latter rejoined:

"Give me your reasons other than the politics of the coming campaign as to why this defendant should be tried fifteen minutes after the verdict of the jury. Isn't it because these men want to hold on to their political crib? It seems as though it is the corrupt office of the district attorney to prostitute the courts of the land by a political campaign which every man knows to be exploited this year upon the guilt or innocence of Mr. Calhoun."

Attorney Byington added that in another department he had been denied the immediate trial of James Treadwell for the reason that a number of defendants who were not on bail must be given the preference. There he asserted that the district attorney acted exactly opposite to the position he took in this case.

Attorney O'Gara here interposed that perhaps Patrick Calhoun wanted to spend his money and that a district attorney would be elected who would drop his case altogether.

Attorney Barrett represented that Attorney Stanley Moore was out of the state and would not return until next Thursday, and that it would suit counsel much better to have the date set as July 19 a week from Monday, and accordingly that order was made.

Listen!

Have you been putting off the buying of the piano for your home, waiting for the "right time"—the "right opportunity"? Listen, then, for it is here now.

There have been "piano sales" and "piano offerings" in countless numbers, but how many have been found the real opportunities advertised?

Here is a straight-from-the-shoulder, business-like proposition from a piano house which in the six years that it has been in the California field has built up a business greater than that of any like concern on the Pacific Coast. And why? Because every statement, every promise, has been fulfilled to the letter.

Here is our proposition—your opportunity. An opportunity so unusual that during the past few days scores and scores of shrewd piano buyers have been quick to take advantage of it. It ends in a few days.

Here's Our To begin with, Proposition prices of all instruments on $2 for $1 our floors have been marked down to figures that must sell a large number of them quickly. In addition to this, for every dollar you pay within the next week as part payment on any new piano in our stock we will give you a receipt for twice the amount up to $50.

No "ifs" or "ands" about it! Pay us $5, we give you a receipt for $10. Pay us $50, we give you a receipt for $100.

You will find here pianos, superb ones, which sell regularly for $275, which can now be purchased for as little as $196. A magnificent $350 piano you can get for $262; $400 pianos go for $284, and $500 pianos for as low as $368, and, remember, that $1 now does the work of $2.

It isn't every day that you can make one dollar do the work of two, and dollars don't come so easy that a single piano buyer can afford to let this real opportunity slip by without coming to our store and making selection of the piano which best suits the purse and fancy.

Every one of the forty makes of pianos which we carry is included in this sale. The superb Chickering, the time-honored Hazelton, the glorious Sohmer, the genuine Auto-piano, the Kimball, made in the largest factory in the world; the Decker, the Lester, the Marshall and Wendell, and thirty others of the best known American makes of pianos are included in this remarkable offer.

Remember, this unusual offer on our part if or a few days only. You will surely regret it if you do not take advantage of it now. Better come tomorrow morning and make your selection.

BLOCKING UP THE MAIN STREET

Citizens Call Upon Mayor Mott to Compel Police to do Their Duty

EDITOR TRIBUNE: The attention of the police has been called several times to the gross violation of the law at Twelfth and Broadway, but for some reason the blue-coats do not take any cognizance of the matter. I would like to ask you, Mr. Editor, if it is a case of "pull" with the police or the Police Commission?

I refer to the blocking of Broadway by a grocery firm so that the west side of the street between Twelfth and Thirteenth cannot be used by vehicles for several hours during the day. It has been the custom of the firm in question to have its delivery teams backed up in front of the store ten and fifteen deep. The horses reach out nearly to the street car tracks, blocking the way and crowding other vehicles across the tracks, causing numerous accidents, to say nothing of the inconvenience to the public.

An officer holding a big club in his hand stands at Twelfth and Broadway keeping the highway along Twelfth street clear. However, it is not on record that the police have ever kept Broadway clear of this grocery wagon nuisance. It is a shame that the rights of the public should be imposed upon in this manner.

The poor unfortunate backblock without a pull is driven off the sidewalk. Why is it that just one firm is allowed to block the main street and pay no attention to the law or the rights of the public? Mayor Mott should wake up and see that his police do their duty and do not make flesh of one and fowl of another. I trust that this gross violation of the rights of the people will be corrected at once, for if it is not I shall get up a petition to the Police Commissioners and demand a hearing in behalf of a suffering public.

Yours truly,
JOHN C. W. WILLIAMS.

GIRLS MARRIAGE MAD, SAYS JOHNSON

Accused Bigamist Tells of Advertising For Wife and Getting 200 Replies

FORCED TO WED SOME; ALL OF THEM LOVED HIM

Women to Blame for His Predicament, He Claims; Jealousy Main Cause

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—Although the local police have sent telegrams to the various cities in which Christian Johnson, the alleged bigamist, has carried on his escapades, up to noon they had received no replies. In consequence the much-married prisoner remained in his cell, but in due time further developments.

Detective Sergeant Fred, having secured a check for Johnson's baggage, had it forwarded to the property clerk's office this morning when it arrived from Los Angeles and proceeded to go through it. While nothing incriminating was found, it appeared that the operations of the accused man have been even wider than was at first supposed.

Pictures of Women
A clipping from the Commercial Appeal of Memphis, Tenn., showing two date of December 18, 1927, reveals that a wealthy Western farmer was advertising for a wife at that time, and a number of pictures of beautiful women, a few groups and photos of several children were found from all parts of the country.

Johnson's wardrobe is of the most expensive nature. It includes a magnificent wedding suit, evidently reserved for marriage festivals entirely, a number of fancy vests and several suits of clothes.

The detectives are still hoping to hear from the dispatches that they sent out, and by the advertisements found in his papers and the admissions of the man himself it seems certain that his known marriages may be even tripled and perhaps quadrupled when the truth is known.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—With a half dozen aliases to his credit, two wives whose claims he admits, to say nothing of affairs and engagements with some 200 other women, Christian Johnson, a horse dealer, 65 years of age, is in custody in this city, and the police believe they have apprehended a wholesale bigamist whose violations of the marital law will involve women throughout the United States.

"San Francisco women are marriage mad," asserted Johnson in his cell at the city prison this morning. "I think I must be involved with 200 or more. It really is not my fault. I came here two years ago and, desiring to get married, started looking for a wife. I was simply flooded with letters—simply flooded."

Johnson wrote letters to at least three women whom he called his wives while living at the Winchester Hotel in this city. He formed an extensive acquaintance with members of the fair sex, he asserts, through newspaper advertisements in which he depicted himself as a refined and unencumbered bachelor in search of a wife.

"So many women replied that I became confused," he maintains, "and I couldn't help getting entangled. The women are more to blame than I am."

Blames Jealous Woman
Johnson holds a jealous woman responsible for the predicament in which he finds himself with the police, who were assisted in arresting him through Miss Minnie Cather, a drummer, living at the Alta apartments, who Johnson married six months ago.

Miss Cather, who is a fascinating woman about 35 years old, was taken into custody when Johnson came to San Francisco yesterday morning, when he was arrested by Detectives Steve and John Freel on a car he had boarded after arriving at the Third and Townsend street station on the Sunset Limited from Los Angeles.

Another With Baby
A woman with a baby, whom Johnson had met on the train and had promised to meet later in Santa Rosa, was present when the detectives swooped down on him. The woman fled in confusion with the woman drummer following Johnson's arrest, and her identity did not become known to the police.

Miss Cather, by Miss Cather in aiding in the arrest of Johnson, was screened by the police. Johnson, however, disclosed the matter following his arrest by telling what had led him to come to San Francisco yesterday.

Lured to City
It then developed that Miss Cather had consented to lure him to San Francisco as the result of a compact she had entered into with Mrs. Henrietta Leopold, a widow living at 2144 Sutter street, who was married to Johnson on April 13 last by Justice of the Peace Golden.

Johnson's marriage to this widow that first attracted the attention of the police to Johnson, who had deserted her the day of the marriage, after inducing her to part with $500. Leopold, by engaging a room at the Sutter street house which she conducts in Sutter street early in April, Mrs. Leopold has an 11-year-old daughter named Regia, and it was the attention paid to this girl in the attention of the widow.

Widow Gives up Money
Mrs. Leopold said she would take the matter under advisement, and began to ask her other lodgers what the account about Johnson. The latter, who had repudiated her as a wealthy horse trader and ranch owner from the south, appeared to be the most popular man in the house.

The day of the marriage Johnson induced Mrs. Leopold to go to the Hibbard Bank and withdraw $200. Another $400

Mrs. Josephine Amelia Tretheway, wealthy widow of Stockton, who, he says, scolded him into marrying her.

"A Woman With a Baby," whom he met on a train before his arrest yesterday and promised to meet again in Santa Rosa.

"A Very Tender Woman," who answered one of his advertisements for a wife and whose name he refuses to disclose.

"The Girl in Schleswig-Holstein," who, Johnson says, was the only woman he ever really loved.

"A Wise San Francisco Woman," with whom, Johnson says, he was corresponding when one of his wives found him out and left him.

Aphorisms by Man of Multiple Marriages

Women in San Francisco are marriage-mad. I advertised for a wife and two hundred women applied by letter to marry me.

Whether a man makes a woman scream or dream, it turns out the same in the end. They all get infinitely tired.

I was scolded into marrying this Tretheway woman in Stockton. She gave me no peace of mind till I led her to the altar.

I loved but once in my life, but fate grimaced at me and denied me the girl of my desire. This girl is now dead, but her spirit haunts me and makes all other women appear ugly and ridiculous.

Why did I ever marry? Because I was a fool and saw the phantoms of all fools.

All women are mercenary. They affect generosity to the men they love, but in their heart of hearts they know this is simply a trick to win affection.

HOW JOHNSON MADE LOVE A TYPICAL BILLET-DOUX

Byron Springs, March 12th.

Miss Minnie Cather, San Francisco.

My Dear Little Wife.

I received your letter just now on my return here and hasten to answer it so that you will get my reply tonight.

Oh, Darling! I do miss you so much—so very much more than I can put down on this paper. I want you to send me a telegram as soon as you get this and let me know if you are coming here to spend Sunday with me. If you are not I am going to Stockton.

I will leave here at 12 o'clock tomorrow. If I don't hear from you before, either by telegram or by phone, I will leave on the 12 o'clock train.

I have just shipped the stallion I was telling you about. Everything is O. K., but the deal almost cleaned me out. I have also received a letter from the "Old Man" in Germany. He is feeling better again.

Hoping this letter finds you very well and that I will hear from you before noon tomorrow, telling me whether or not I may expect you, I close with all my love and many kisses.

Your own husband,
JOHN C. ANDERSON.

Minnie M. Cather, woman

was raised by Mrs. Leopold on her farm in household effects. Johnson told her that he was leaving to take such a lot of old lumber to his well-stocked ranch home outside of Los Angeles.

"You had better let me have all your money, my dear," suggested Johnson. "I am pushed for ready cash, and I have not even a pair of blue jeans. I would like to buy some in San Francisco. You and Regina can start for Los Angeles in a day or two. I must catch the Owl for Los Angeles tonight."

Mrs. Leopold handed over her $500 to him newly acquired husband and kissed him good-bye. The following morning he received a letter which Johnson had penned hurriedly at the depot before boarding the train.

"Everything is all right, my dear," Johnson wrote. "I will write you and you know when again. I will be in another day or two. Love to yourself and Regina in the meantime. The expected letter without delay. Then she became worried and began to confide her fears to her other lodgers.

Mrs. Leopold said she had heard that Johnson had been arrested. She then communicated with the police and told him the disappearance of Johnson and her $500. While the police were trying to get some trace of Johnson, Mrs. Leopold received a call from Minnie Cather, the drummer.

Miss Cather Sees Widow
"I have heard you have had trouble with this man Anderson," said Miss Cather. "He has deceived me dreadfully, and he should be in jail. We will put our heads together and see what we can do."

Asked by Mrs. Leopold what interest she had in the matter here, Johnson told her that he had been married to her on April 13th, and the writer, who signs himself "John C. Anderson," addressed Miss Cather as "My dear little wife."

"You his wife, too?" asked the widow. "That is impossible. He has just married me."

"He was married to me, also," said Miss Cather. "I don't bear his name, but I can prove my claim to what I say. I repeat he should be in jail."

Both women then began to plan how they could get Anderson, or Johnson, to come to San Francisco.

"That will be easy," confided Miss Cather. "He thinks I own a mine, and keeps corresponding with me. I will write when I hear from him again and tell him I want to see him about the mine. That will surely fetch him."

Mrs. Leopold then communicated with the police again, writing to Chief Cook, in which she related in detail her experiences with the putative horse-trader from Los Angeles.

Marries in Stockton
Detectives Bunner and Freel were then assigned to investigate Mrs. Leopold's story and succeeded in tracing Johnson to

H. K. JACKSON TO TRAVEL IN EAST

President of Oakland Company Leaves on Extended Trip Across Continent

H. K. Jackson, president of the Jackson Furniture Company, left last night for the East. Mr. Jackson will visit Chicago, Grand Rapids and New York, and will combine business with pleasure while in those cities. He will make a fortnight's visit with relatives in his old home town, Jefferson, Maine, returning by way of Seattle, where he will spend a few days at the Alaska-Yukon exposition.

Mr. Jackson anticipates remaining away until August 12. He kept troubling me all the time after I first met her. I knew I was married to Mrs. Leopold already, but I thought I would have no peace of mind until I married Mrs. Tretheway also.

Admits He is Fool
"Why did I marry at all? Because I was a fool and saw the phantoms of all fools."

"I came to San Francisco about two years ago for my health and did not decide to marry then. My experience with women here has disappointed me very much. Had I not decided to marry I would never have got into a mess like this."

"I have always made a comfortable living as a horse trader. During the Boer war I supplied horses and draught mules to the British army and made considerable money, but I have very little of it left. I have lived well and spent a great deal of money the past two years."

Johnson, according to the police, has adopted at least six different aliases since he has been in this State. When arrested he had got in money and a diamond ring worth about $400.

WRIGHT MAY BE SUPREME JUDGE

Southern Democrat Said to Be Slated to Succeed Justice Fuller

WASHINGTON, July 3.—It is learned here from good authority that President Taft is to appoint former Secretary of War Luke E. Wright of Tennessee to the Supreme bench, to succeed Chief Justice Fuller, who, it is understood, is to retire from the bench early next fall.

General Wright is in Washington now. While he denies the report, the appointment is almost certain. President Taft considers Secretary Wright fitted in every way for the position and he feels that the selection of a close Democratic like Wright will aid him in breaking the solid South.

Henry Is the Whole Show

Francis J. Henry says the cases against Patrick Calhoun can't be taken up till some time in August. Meantime Henry has gone off to Alaska on a pleasure jaunt. The criminal courts of San Francisco must wait on his convenience. It appears that neither the District Attorney, the courts nor defendants have anything to say about when cases shall be called and tried or otherwise disposed of. Apparently the arrangement by which Henry in his dual capacity of Special Assistant Attorney General of the United States and private attorney for Rudolph Spreckels became Assistant District Attorney of San Francisco provided that he should take absolute control of the legal machinery in all the cases which Rudolph Spreckels is interested in prosecuting. Nobody can get a hearing till Henry says the word. He puts off and calls cases at his pleasure. When persons under indictment are clamoring for a trial he has their cases continued and goes off making political speeches, Spreckels paying the bills. He let a host of cases lie on the clogged calendar while he stumped Oregon against Senator Fulton. Patrick Calhoun was once called all the way from New York to stand trial; the hour was set and the venire of jurors summoned and present, when Henry got up and had the case postponed because James L. Gallagher had gone off on an Eastern tour without the trial judge (ostensibly at least) and the attorneys for the defense being informed. Henry had privately given Gallagher permission to go away on the eve of trial and then urged his absence as a reason for another postponement. Judges Lawlor and Dunne take Henry's word as law in such matters. The District Attorney has nothing to say, and is apparently not even consulted by his ostensible subordinate. He sinks out of sight and lets Henry run things to suit himself. Judges Lawlor and Dunne simply concur.

A Live Man in Texas Journalism

Clarence Austin, formerly examiner for the Association of American Advertisers, has been appointed Assistant General Manager of the Houston Chronicle. It is a position he is admirably qualified to fill. He thoroughly understands the newspaper publishing business and is familiar with every detail of advertising and the constituents of its value.

Mr. Austin is well and favorably known to newspaper publishers on the Pacific Coast, and is highly esteemed both for his personal qualities and his professional capacity by all who came in contact with him. Not long ago he was in California auditing the circulation of various newspapers for the information of the associated advertisers whom he then represented.

The Houston Chronicle, of which Mr. Austin has associated himself, is one of the most prosperous and progressive journals in the South. It is without question the leading evening paper of Texas and is making rapid strides in circulation and influence. The Chronicle is a representative of the new school of evening journalism which denies the primacy of the morning paper and aims to print the news first—which it generally does, leaving papers printed the next morning to thresh out the details and work up side issues. It will afford Mr. Austin a fine field for the display of his talents.

The Chronicle is to be congratulated on securing so well equipped a man as Mr. Austin to assist in directing its business policy. Our Texas contemporary is evidently determined to keep in the van of the procession. THE TRIBUNE extends its felicitations to both the Chronicle and Mr. Austin.

Los Angeles has kept Henry E. Huntington busy for two or three years past denying the reports that he is to marry his aunt, the widow of his uncle, the late Collis P. Huntington. On Mr. Huntington's recent return from the East the rumor of the contemplated marriage was set afloat again, simply because he was refurnishing his magnificent country mansion at Oak Knoll and putting the estate in order. When interviewed on the subject Mr. Huntington said he was tired of repeatedly denying the nonsensical report which was entirely groundless. That is only a few weeks ago; but, because Mr. Huntington has bought a mansion at Long Beach for a summer home, the rumor of a marriage with Mrs. Collis P. Huntington is again set in motion. The latest purchase makes the fourth of the list of summer homes Mr. Huntington has acquired, the other three being the Oak Knoll place; one at Naples at the Sea and another at Redondo. Evidently, if the millionaire wants to put a permanent quietus to the report of his prospective marriage to Mrs. Collis P., he will have to either marry some one else or quit buying summer homes.

While Supervisors Horner and Kelley are the only members now in office of the board which five years ago instituted the policy which has since been productive of such good results in the way of permanent county improvements and a surplus in the treasury of over $200,000, it is worthy of special mention that Supervisor Bridge, during the two years he has been a member of the board, has steadfastly favored every public improvement and been ever watchful of the financial interests of the county. Moreover, during the brief period that Supervisor Mullins has held a seat in the board he has demonstrated his efficiency and devotion to the best interests of the county and is one of the most energetic and useful of its members.

An Appreciation of Cushman

By the death of Francis W. Cushman, representative in Congress from the State of Washington, the West loses one of the strongest men who have appeared in public life. Born in 1867 on a farm near Brighton, Washington county, Iowa, he early manifested a thirst for knowledge which could be gratified only by his own unaided exertions. Working as water boy to a railroad gang, and later as a section hand, he secured some advantages by a brief term in the old Pleasant Plains Academy in Jefferson county, Iowa, and at the age of 16 went to Wyoming, where he found employment on the plains as a cowboy, and later as a lumber jack in a forest camp.

Every available hour was occupied in study of such books as he could procure, and finally he became a country school teacher and began reading law. Leaving Wyoming for Nebraska, he was admitted to the bar, and after successful experience in practice, he went to the newer land of opportunity in Washington, where he soon attained eminence as a lawyer and entered public life. He was a member of Congress for ten years, and had so won the confidence of his constituency that the path to greater honors lay open before him. In Congress he soon took a foremost position. He was a master of oratory and of rhetoric as an art of persuasion. During a running debate he was accused of lacking in patriotic emotion. In his reply he said: "The great struggle of patriots for the integrity of the Union passed before I was born. But when a child I fondled with awe two faded epaulets, stained by blood shed in that great struggle."

That was all, but it roused the imagination and opened a pathetic vista, and was the highest form of oratory.

Californians should remember him in kindness. In a speech in support of the naval appropriation, he used as his climax of illustration the building of the Oregon in San Francisco and her voyage of 16,000 miles to report for duty before Santiago. It is one of the gems of oratory.

He had command of every weapon of speech. Sometimes called a humorist, his use of wit was not for the petty purpose of causing laughter, but to the higher end of clarifying his argument.

He is dead untimely, when the zenith of his powers was still below the far horizon that spread before him, but he leaves the example of a thorough and undaunted American, whose much impeded struggle onward to eminence, through poverty and toil, illustrates the best quality of our national character.

San Francisco Business Men Organize.

In response to a circular invitation signed by Charles M. Plum, Timothy Hopkins, Joseph D. Grant, J. D. Spreckels Jr., Alexander Hamilton, A. J. Rich and S. H. Kent, to meet "to investigate the various candidates for office at the coming municipal elections, with the view of selecting and recommending for office those best qualified to serve the city and the taxpayers," nearly all the one hundred and fifty representative Republicans and business men to whom the circular had been addressed were in attendance at the meeting when it convened yesterday afternoon in the assembly room of the San Francisco Merchants' Exchange building. A temporary organization was effected "for the purpose of securing to the electors candidates for office who are known to be capable, upright and energetic men, and who will devote their time to the best interests of San Francisco," with Charles M. Plum as temporary chairman and Col. Paul M. Nippert as temporary secretary. A resolution, also, was adopted for the appointment of an executive committee of twenty-five clothed with powers to select candidates for the public offices to be voted upon and proceed to organize the Republicans of San Francisco to secure the election of such candidates, the executive committee to report back to the general committee.

The movement is a good one. It promises to produce the best results. The list of the membership of the general committee contains the names of the best known citizens engaged in the various walks of San Francisco's business life, among them Charles M. Plum, William Cluff, T. H. Kent, president of the Builders' Exchange; Albert E. Castle, of Castle Bros.; Joseph D. Grant, of Murphy, Grant & Co.; Leon Sloss, of the Northern Commercial Company; William H. Talbot, Andrew Carrigan, A. Hamilton, Homer S. King, J. K. Wilson and George M. Perine, bankers, and others of equally high standing and reputation in the business community. Such a committee of representative citizens will doubtless put up a ticket which will command public confidence, give the city a clean, honest business-like administration and rescue it from the private domination of its government and affairs which now controls it and put an end to the present unfortunate conditions which have been brought about for ulterior purposes and the gratification of personal revenges and selfish ends, and which are retarding a healthy development of the business interests of the community.

An Illinois husband, whose wife had eloped with a soldier, found the truant pair under a tree reading the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam. Whether a loaf of bread and a jug of wine completed the ensemble is not stated in the dispatches.

TIMELY TOPICS

The latest suffragette raid on the British House of Commons met the fate of the others before it. Yet viewed with regard to the number of suffragettes put in jail on account of their disorderly behavior, it may rank as the most formidable of such demonstrations.

If the measure of the progress of the suffragist movement in England is the number of its martyrs, the 114 adherents put under arrest give the attack of Tuesday the aspect of a victory. The incident of the slapping of a policeman's face by a suffragist leader points to the recognition by the London women of qualifications for the ballot such as obtain in certain sections of New York, where to slug a policeman is accepted as proof of fitness in masculine candidates for the suffrage.

But the demonstration has a special significance at a time when the Gerenda of British stamens is exciting national concern. If these are the mothers of the sons? A nation which breeds such Amazons need not fear German aggression. Judging by the number of potential but as yet inglorious Beadesles, not to say Penthesileas, in the ranks of the marching mob of women, the cause for alarm is on the part of the other nations. England has had great queens. Is it yet to produce a female Cromwell who will ride roughshod over Parliament?—New York World.

What can be thought of a country which sets up a gambling-house as part of its governmental machinery? Nearly two decades ago the United States wiped out the Louisiana lottery by closing the mails to it. The mails will not be allowed to be used for any patronage of the Cuban lottery from this country. Doubtless there are thousands of persons in the United States who would try their luck in the lottery in Havana if the authorities here would give them postal privileges. These, however, will be denied. Cuba will thus have to depend on home patronage and such contributions as it can get from its Latin-American neighbors and from Europe. It is less than half a year since the United States government was hauled down from the government house in Havana and the United States troops sailed away. As a civilized and Christianized nation Cuba is making a bad beginning.—St. Louis Globe.

The only power which has been able to preserve law and order in Mohammedan countries in England, whose king is sovereign over more followers of the prophet than even the Sultan of Turkey, Egypt and India and the Sudan are examples of what can be accomplished by overwhelming force. Germany would doubtless be glad of the chance to show what it could do in Asia Minor and Armenia and Syria, but still more hopeful, because more nearly possible, is the expectation of an improvement to come about as the result of strong representations to be made to the new semi-constitutional government of Turkey.—Brooklyn Standard Union.

It will not make much difference in the long run how many Democrats receive office at the hands of an amiable Republican President or how many Democratic communities are fed on the crumbs that fall from the tables of a condescending plutocracy. A party in pretended opposition which is content with this sort of thing will remain a minority forever.—New York World.

SHORT SNAPPY SAYINGS

Pittsburg has opened up a $1,000,000 ball park. It did not necessarily do this to match its new club, for it figures that about $4,000,000 would have to be added to do that and even then it wouldn't care to dispose of the exaggeration at those bargain figures.

Chancellor Bulow is going to resign as soon as his finance measure is adopted. We fear that will leave him at the post until the grim reaper calls for him.

Col. J. Hamilton Lewis is back in America. We presume he is still a Democrat. It will not be necessary for him to tell what he believes before deciding whether he is a Democrat or not.

Fitting, though a temporary cure for the blues, is not endorsed unanimously as yet by pulp and press. As for the policemen in the park, they do not think the industry needs to be encouraged, nor do they think any effort should be made to fatten the flitting microbe. If the party of the first and second parts are in their right minds probably no harm can be done, but is there any flitting under such circumstances?

Good Roads the Greatest Factor in General Prosperity

Muscle and Money.

"Though the Romans were heathens and pagans, from our viewpoint, they were too civilized to live even before the dawn of Christianity without good roads. Their structures in this line abide to this day. It took muscle and money, but they expended both and got results."—Nashville American.

For General Welfare.

"Nothing adds more to the general prosperity of a community than good roads. Hardly anything is better calculated to enhance land values. Most assuredly nothing lends more greatly to the popular convenience and general welfare."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Must Be Kept Up.

"As fast as the roads are built let them be kept up as good roads. They should not be permitted to deteriorate into poor roads again at any point for a single day. This means a band of road repairers working every day in the year."—Los Angeles Times.

Trade Follows Good Roads.

"Heavy loads of farm produce are held up by bad roads, and the better route is chosen for them, sometimes, even when the market is not as much to the liking of the farmer as the one offered by city or town situated on poorer highways. The important fact about this is that the farmers usually do their trading in the same place where they market their crops, and their trade is valuable to the mechanics of any city."—Schenectady Gazette.

Time to Begin Building.

"When the automobile gets into general business use, a journey of from thirty to sixty miles will be accomplished in the time now occupied in a trip of ten miles when a team of horses is used. There will have to be continuous highways, and the time to begin building them is now; reaping the benefit of experience and the still greater benefit to be derived by the farmer who has stuff to haul to market and merchandise to haul back to the farm."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

What Really Counts.

"It's not the first shovel of dirt that builds good roads, but the next and the next and the next."—Baltimore American.

Dawn of a New Day.

"One is bound to note the beginning of a general good roads movement throughout the Southern States as the dawn of a new day. The coming of the automobiles and the agitation constantly kept up by the automobilists has opened the eyes of the South to a recognition of its sore need for good roads such as it has not had since the old days when the quality drove about in coach and six."—Washington Herald.

Learning Through Experiments.

"It is only through experiment that we learn and progress. Some way must be found of 'nailing down' our hardened street surfaces or else we may as well give up this sort of road making. If we keep at it long enough we shall find the way."—New Haven Register.

Whole Nation Will Benefit.

"The project of the International League for Highway Improvement to build four transcontinental carriage roads is the direct result of the development of the automobile. Automobilists need such highways, and are willing to take the lead in the movement to get them built. But automobilists will be by no means the sole gainers if the improvements are carried through. The whole nation will benefit, and special gain will come to the localities traversed by the highways."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The boys were fined two dollars each, Captain Austin declaring that the fine of his son would have to be paid out of the son's savings.

Local undertakers have formed an association, the purpose of which is alleged to be "to secure harmony in business, to cultivate a more friendly spirit socially, to elevate and bring to a higher state of perfection our profession and to promote the interests of all legitimate undertakers."

Kansas City is having a police shake-up of the right kind. In Chicago, on the other hand, the only police shake-ups are those caused by dynamite.

This increase of 128 per cent in the tariff on pineapples indicates that some one has planted a pine apple tree down in the Panhandle country somewhere.

The number of words used in the tariff debate so far are estimated at six million. And meanwhile the people of the United States have indulged in approximately fourteen dozen expletives "per capita."

Governor Johnson of Minnesota expresses himself favorably toward woman suffrage. It sounds strange—but nobody ever dreamed, a few years ago, that the Southern Democrats would take up prohibition.

A clerk in a Wall street office in New York posted this notice on his desk one morning recently when he entered the office looking, as one of his associates said, "like a dissolving view." "I know it's warm, I don't care what the thermometer shows, I don't care to know how little you slept last night. It is usually warm at this time of the year in this part of the world. Forget it!"

Scientific Notes

Marconi denies the assertion recently made to the effect that wireless telegraph waves are dangerous to the health of the operators. He says that he has been in the business twelve years without injury and adds that his health was never better than during periods when he was exposed for many hours a day to the conditions which have been challenged.

There has been a decided falling off in the number of railway wrecks due to broken rails. Following the excitement of three years ago when so many accidents were due to faults in the rails the methods of manufacture have been changed, with good results, which are just now beginning to appear.

Drinking water supplied to Nice, France, and several smaller French cities, is now purified by ozone, in addition to filtration. Nice is a city of 195,000 people.

Fresh Air, Sanitation, Good Water, Exercise, Promoters of Public Health

Prevention Better Than Cure.

The dominant note today in the domain of health is that of optimism. To prevent is counted more important and far easier than to check in time of epidemic. Physicians are now ready to meet all comers in the field of disease. They will fight death in countless forms with firm hope of victory. Their confidence is due to the belief that most of the ills of mankind are preventable.—Chicago Tribune.

Sanitation Important.

A perfectly installed sanitary system in the house is as important as that the foundations be strong and secure. And this applies to an entire community in matters of water supply and sewage disposal. Epidemics and plagues are and have always been due to filth and lack of sanitation. So it pays from the health standpoint to look carefully after the plumbing of the house.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Air and Light.

With no mortgage existing on fresh air and no trust to monopolize the supply, it seems unnecessary that the largest death rate from a disease should be directly due to lack of air and light. When people generally come to know more about the laws of health, dark, unwholesome dwellings will not be occupied, no matter how cheaply they may be had, because disease will be recognized as being too dear a price to pay.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Gospel of Fresh Air.

If the gospel of fresh air could be thoroughly accepted, as well as widely preached in this part of the United States, the death rate could be scaled down in surprising fashion. And that applies not merely to the mass of consumption but to half the ills to which mortality in Massachusetts is the victim.—Boston Advertiser.

Gaining in Knowledge.

Our knowledge of curative agencies has kept pace with our gain in diagnosing our dangers. We are aware of many more forms of sickness than our grandfathers knew, but we also have the means of fighting them. As long as we do not let ourselves be blinded to the existence of the new perils, we have the less to fear from them.—Detroit Free Press.

Ventilation Pays.

Ventilation is an investment paying for itself in increased human efficiency. Put concisely, the command of modern experts on health is: Open a window.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Right Kind of Tonic.

An Indianapolis physician, asked by a newspaper to suggest some suitable spring tonic and give a prescription for it so that everybody might profit thereby, said: "Decrease your eating one-half, increase your water drinking five times, double your outdoor exercise a half, get not less than eight hours sleep. This is a prescription which no one need take to the drug store to have filled."—Washington Post.

Let the intelligent and somewhat over-civilized man worry if he likes. He will be sure to contract a bacterial disease if he investigates long enough and worries about it. But the barefoot boy immune.—Washington Post.

POLITICAL COMMENT

DISCOVERY OF A "JOKER."

A goodly number of jokers have been discovered in the Aldrich bill. A joker is something which is concealed and has a different purpose from the one that is apparent. A number of these jokers have been discovered and corrected.

Now a new joker has been found. It has been discovered that a large merchandising establishment in Chicago which has used its influence in exciting the women of the country in regard to the duty that was proposed to be put on high class gloves for women owns its own glove factories in France. The same concern has been selling its own imported gloves to the women of the Northwest for twenty-five years and has been paying no duty, or if any, it has been trifling. The firm we refer to has been passing in the public mind as a patriotic institution, spending its own money for postage and for circulars for the public good. Now it is discovered that these patriotic individuals have been working for their own interest and have worked the women of the Northwest to a finish. The concern when it went to establish a glove factory did not establish it in Chicago, Elgin, Rockford, Lake Forest or any place in Illinois, but established it in France, where cheap labor could be had. Now they do not desire to pay a duty on their own gloves made by their own cheap labor in France. Such selfishness makes the heart sick. But the truth is out. Possibly it is knowledge of facts like these which makes Senator Aldrich the mean man which he seems to be. Possibly Aldrich has discovered that there are other mean men besides himself and Lodge.

But a fact like this will not cut any figure nor will it become known widely. The other fact has taken deep root. Furthermore, the ladies want cheap gloves and they will stay by the original proposition of having those nice gloves that reach to the shoulder come in without paying the Government anything.

The tariff is a great game.—Des Moines Capital.

The Cleveland Dental Society has petitioned the school board of that city for permission to establish dental clinics in the public schools. An examination by forty members of the society of 3,000 pupils has revealed that 90 per cent of them have decayed or decaying teeth.

The showing the health officer of the city says, makes imperative the establishment of clinics.

A stockbroker whose mini was always full of business was asked a few days ago how old his father was.

"Well," said he, abstractedly, "he's quoted at 80, but there is every prospect that he will reach par and possibly be at a premium."

"I tell you it's an outrage," screamed the married suffragette. "The man who keeps that public-house across the street can vote, and I can't."

"That's so," replied her husband. "But he shuts up at eleven o'clock, and you never do."

In a Sheffield school the children were asked to come prepared with the meaning of the word "bachelor" for the next lesson.

This was one little girl's confident definition: "A bachelor is a very happy man."

The teacher wanted to know more. How did the child know that?

"Father told me so."

PITTSBURGH, July 6.—While embracing a life-sized statue of Venus de Milo in the hall of statuary of the Carnegie Institute this afternoon, Leon Zellman was escorted from the building with much difficulty and sent to Central police station charged with being a disorderly person.

CONVENTION CALL TO REPUBLICANS

County Committee Makes Appointment of Delegates Under Primary Law

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—The Republican county committee met last night in the assembly room of the Pacific building and adopted a call and apportionment for the platform convention which, under the primary law, follows that preliminary election.

The two sections of the committee were represented and proceeded to business under an armed truce. There were thirty-one of the thirty-six members of the committee in attendance. J. H. Sanborn, chairman of the regulars, presided over the meeting. The five absentees were Thomas F. Dolan, J. C. Welch, George Kammerer, Walter Shannon and John D. Day. The last-named sent William Brown as a proxy, but as under the constitution of the committee proxies are not recognized, he was not admitted.

After Chairman Worthington had called the meeting to order, F. H. Dam of the minority made a speech, in which he said that he waived none of his rights as chairman, but that he had been acting in advance, with what was going to be done, and he concurred. Dam then took a seat beside Secretary Charles H. Forbes.

Harmon Bauer presented the call for the convention at which a campaign platform for the Republican party will be adopted and a county committee, or local governing body, for the next two years will be elected. The date for the holding of the convention is August 30th.

Apportion Delegates

The apportionment is on the basis of one delegate for each 300 votes, or fraction thereof, cast for U. S. Grant for presidential elector in 1908, which gives a convention of 185 delegates. The apportionment by assembly districts is as follows:

Twenty-eighth assembly district, 2; Twenty-ninth, 2; Thirtieth, 2; Thirty-first, 2; Thirty-second, 1; Thirty-third, 1; Thirty-fourth, 1; Thirty-fifth, 1; Thirty-sixth, 1; Thirty-seventh, 1; Thirty-eighth, 1; Thirty-ninth, 1; Fortieth, 1; Forty-first, 1; Forty-second, 1; Forty-third, 1; Forty-fourth, 1; Forty-fifth, 1.

Elphinstone of the minority moved the adoption of the call and that Dam as well as Chairman Worthington and Secretary Forbes certify it to the registrar of voters. This motion was unanimously concurred in, the motion being as the committee has but a brief lease of life left.

Minority Jokes

The call was unanimously adopted. The Chairman Worthington declared the meeting adjourned to the call of the chairman.

"Meeting stands adjourned," echoed Dam, and the minority laughed at its own joke.

Former Supervisor Edward R. Rock has filed his petition with the registrar of voters, and will enter the primary contest for the Democratic nomination for mayor.

The Municipal League of Independent Republican Clubs has arranged to canvass 107 of the 301 voting precincts of the city for signatures to the petitions of twenty-two of the candidates. It is estimated that the other eight candidates have secured their own petition.

The Union Labor party has decided to leave three vacancies on its ticket. The members of the party will be asked to fill the blanks with the names of Charles E. Boyle for district attorney, Thomas P. Boyle for auditor, and John R. Daniels for city attorney.

PIONEER CO. TAKES NEW AGENCY

Closed Deal With the Hudson People for Five Hundred Cars

Much success is predicted for the Hudson car company this season, notwithstanding the fact that it is just now making its first appearance on the market. This car is the product of a factory operated by several of the oldest and best known automobile men in America, among others B. C. Morse, recently connected with the Thomas Flyer factory, R. D. Chapin, H. E. Coffin and Hugh Chalmers of the Chalmers-Detroit Works, R. B. Jackson and George W. Dunton, recently of the Olds Motor Works.

This machine, unlike other cars formerly selling at a price under one thousand dollars, is usually made only in the structural end of cars costing from $2000 to $3000, viz: three speed selected shift transmission, big beam front axle, water cooling system and large 32-inch wheels. It is estimated that the output from the Hudson factory for the year 1910 will be four thousand cars. The entire efforts of the builders will be concentrated in the production of one model of machine, the Hudson "40."

The price of $900 fixed for this car, taken in conjunction with the large car ideas embodied in its construction, will undoubtedly appeal to a large class of buyers—people who have deferred purchasing a car owing to the fact that such a price as this car would have necessitated purchasing a machine that would be inadequate for the service required.

Following is copy of wire from E. P. Brinegar, president of the Hudson automobile company, regarding the Hudson deal:

New York, July 6, 1909.

Mr. Calvin C. Ellis, Care of Pioneer Automobile Company, 301 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco.

Demonstrating Hudson Runabout going forward to you by express today. Greatest value ever offered less than fifteen hundred dollars. Car powerful, fast and material workmanship excellent. Have ordered five hundred. Should sell one hundred before September first. Price nine hundred automobiles.

RESQUES WIFE; ELOPES WITH HER

Takes Her From Mother-in-law and Starts on Honeymoon Trip

SAN RAFAEL, July 8.—William Kennard, better known as the Real Estate King of Larkspur, has added a new chapter to the mother-in-law stories by eloping with his own wife, after she had been taken from him by her mother, Mrs. W. J. Kinney of Corte Madera.

Kennard married the late Kinney on January 8 of this year. In the face of determined opposition on the part of the young lady's mother, who kept up the battle after the wedding, and finally succeeded in separating the young couple, the bridegroom had to live in her mother's home at Corte Madera and serving employment as a telephone operator at San Rafael.

Last night Mrs. Kennard failed to return home and her mother instituted a search which resulted in the discovery that her daughter had last been seen on a train with her husband headed for San Francisco.

"This is a foul play," declared the irate mother-in-law, "and I intend to see the conductor of the train answer for it. They dared to sit in the baggage car and make a play of it. I intend to see the very last I saw of them the next morning."

Mrs. Kinney still holds to her theory of foul play and vows vengeance on the man, who has stolen his wife from her.

MOTORCYCLIST HIT BY TRAIN MUCH IMPROVED

CENTRALVILLE, July 8.—A. J. Lewis, who was struck by a train while on his way to San Jose on his motor cycle Sunday, is slowly improving. Mr. Lewis was in the lead of a party of friends, all on motor cycles, on Sunday morning at Coyote creek, the train struck Lewis from behind, hurling him over a fence. The train was brought to a stop, and the cyclist picked up by H. W. Nuenberg and Mr. J. H. Smith and placed in the baggage car. He was taken to the Railroad Hospital, where it was found that he had sustained severe wounds on his legs, arms and head. His motor-cycle was almost totally wrecked.

J. S. Rose met with an accident Wednesday while hauling a load of hay to the scales of P. C. Hansen & Co. On descending a small grade the load capriciously, throwing Rose to the ground. He sustained a sprained ankle and other minor bruises.

KNOWLAND WORKS FOR POSTOFFICE

Congressman Wants New Federal Building for His Home Town

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Congressman Joseph R. Knowland has been restive for some time past because of the delay in securing a postoffice building for Alameda. For years he and Senator Perkins have worked together to get an appropriation for a public building in the city. Last year they got an appropriation of $120,000 and there was joy here and in Alameda.

Then the Treasury Department undertook to secure business places on sites, so that as much as possible of the appropriation could be put into an imposing structure. The department met with rather indifferent success and decided that the money was better spent in other ways. The plan was to condemn the site considered most suitable. Condemnation proceedings were ordered. They were instituted. Then there fell a deep calm.

That was seven months ago. Congressman Knowland is stirred up. He wants action and he has written firmly, but plainly, asking Attorney General Wickersham what has clogged the wheels of justice. The Congressman awaits a reply.

Lame shoulder is almost invariably caused by rheumatism in the muscles and yields quickly to the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. This liniment is not only prompt and effective, but in no way disagreeable to use. Sold by "Good" Drug Stores.

If people with symptoms of kidney or bladder troubles could realize their danger they would without loss of time commence taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. This great remedy stops the pain and the inflammation, strengthens and builds up these organs and there is no danger of further trouble or other serious disorders. Do not disregard the early symptoms. For sale at Wishart's Drug Store, corner Tenth and Washington streets.
